Chairman’s message

The highlight of 2015 for me was not surprisingly the International Conference of National Trusts in my adopted home town of Cambridge. What a wonderful week that was! So many inspiring people, places and stories all coming together under the banner of the National Trust movement. And as I listened to delegates’ concerns and successes, three themes began to emerge around which we are now focussing our activities and programming: Family, growth and voice.

Family: We are a family, and families share values and look after everyone. Everyone matters, small and large, and our job is to help them all do their very best work. We’re also exploring what it means to be a member of the INTO family, such as membership benefits and how we use our brand and logo.

Growth: Building global capacity for conservation is vitally important. The more people that share the values of heritage – of identity, memory, diversity, humanity – the more chance there is that protecting our heritage will become integral to our global society’s future. Our growth strand encompasses growing the capacity of National Trusts (existing and new) as well as the growth of INTO.

Voice: Delegates at Cambridge urged INTO to speak up more loudly and more often on behalf of the National Trust movement. We will continue to develop the role and position of INTO and its members as the growing voice for heritage. We have already instigated a new annual message to coincide with World Heritage Day in April each year.

And while it’s tough, I do believe there’s reason for hope. We are trusted organisations and people like what we do. We stand for the things that matter but money can’t buy in a world which risks thinking the only things that matter are what money can buy. Beauty, identity, cultural heritage, nature, landscapes – these are the things make us human. Our organisations stand for these things and bring joy to millions of people.

I’m hugely enjoying my term as INTO Chairman. Together with the new Executive Committee, we stand on the shoulders of the giants who have gone before us. We will work hard for you as members of our partnership; a family where everyone matters.

Fiona Reynolds
Chairman
What is INTO?

INTO is an international network of National Trusts and similar non-governmental organisations, globally diverse but united by a shared commitment to conserving and sustaining our shared heritage – built and natural, tangible and intangible.

Through cooperation, coordination and comradeship between the international community of National Trusts, INTO works to develop and promote best conservation practices, increase the capacity of individual organisations, establish Trusts where they do not exist, and advocate in the interests of heritage conservation. Our objectives are:

- To foster international cooperation and coordination between National Trusts and like heritage organisations;
- To formulate and promote conservation best practices;
- To increase and enhance the capacity of individual National Trusts;
- To encourage the establishment and development of National Trusts and like heritage organisations where they do not presently exist;
- To pursue advocacy in the interests of conservation of cultural and natural heritage; and
- To advance the objectives of the Edinburgh Declaration for the Improved Protection of Cultural and Natural Heritage at the National and Local Levels.

- INTO Charter Article 2.2
“Having INTO behind us has been crucial to the successful establishment of a Czech National Trust. INTO has added credibility to our project and we have been able to make good use of their contacts and expertise. They have provided ideas, funding, advice, a shoulder to cry on ... It is not unlike having a fairy godmother!”

Irena Edwards
Chairman of the Czech National Trust
2015 Highlights

The Yangon Heritage Trust, the Trustees of Reservations, Swedish Society of Public Parks and Gardens, Manx National Heritage and British Columbia’s Raincoast Conservation Foundation became our newest members.

INTO used the opportunity of the COP 21 talks in Paris to highlight the impacts of climate change on the inspirational and beautiful landscapes, buildings and cultural heritage cared for by our member organisations.

In 2015, even more wonderful volunteers joined the Secretariat team, enabling us to better serve our member organisations.

We shared expertise and advice with colleagues in Gothenburg considering setting up a Swedish National Trust – and also with Georgia, Malaysia and Slovenia.

Our IT team supported INTO members in South Africa and Zimbabwe with the development of much needed new websites.

The International Conference of National Trusts in Cambridge provided an opportunity to re-envision the role of the global National Trust movement.

This year we developed further opportunities for sharing best practices, advancing cutting-edge heritage conservation issues and strengthening new Trusts, including a lively webinar programme.

The INTO 2015 Working Holidays programme was the biggest yet with projects taking place in a range of countries from France and Spain to China and Japan.

We aim to ensure that our decision-making process is a democratic one and to make the most of our members’ specific skills and enthusiasm. We welcome and value their involvement. Some INTO members offer free entry to their properties upon production of a valid membership card from another National Trust. Most INTO member organisations offer at least a 50% reduction on admission fees and where they do not have properties open to the public can provide other services, such as reduced price heritage walks or assistance with travel plans. Please contact the National Trust in the country you intend to visit or the INTO Secretariat for further information.
2015 was another excellent year for INTO. Our role is to bring people together to share best practices and inspiration, to strengthen existing organisations and empower communities seeking to develop new Trust-like organisations. And we have done all of that in spades this year!

From providing opportunities for National Trust members across the globe to connect and feel part of a worldwide heritage movement through our working holidays and supporter benefits programmes to connecting individual Trusts with shared interests; from our continued support of the Czech National Trust (including helping secure the donation of land around their pilot project site) to advising on new Trusts in Georgia, Malaysia and Slovenia; from developing web-based case studies and ‘how to’ guides to supplying experts to provide more bespoke advice, INTO is the leading voice on the work and philosophy of National Trusts around the world.

We set out with a two-year strategy to increase the impact of the National Trust movement by providing an effective global focal point and supportive framework for advocacy and the worldwide growth of National Trusts. Our work is organised under five sub-strategies, which are summarised below.

Collaborate: Provide high value network opportunities to share best practices, to advance cutting-edge heritage conservation issues, and to strengthen newly-conceived and/or established Trusts in the global south.

Advocate: Lead a high-impact, goal-focused advocacy programme to address heritage conservation issues critical to INTO’s membership.

Communicate: Inspire and engage the members of INTO and the supporters of its member organisations through a focused and robust 21st century communication effort.

Organisational Strength: Articulate and advance an agenda for a high efficiency/high effectiveness organisational culture for INTO.

Financial Strength: Build a financially stable INTO that maintains existing – and attracts new – resources, establishes an appropriately scaled fundraising effort, and provides strong financial oversight.
As this Report shows, we are making considerable strides towards these objectives, particularly around providing opportunities for our members to connect with other INTO members, or indeed to benefit from the experience and knowledge of our Secretariat team and Expert Network.

In September 2015, Simon Molesworth completed his term as INTO Chairman. We are hugely grateful for his leadership from the early days of our organisation and thank him for all he has done for INTO and for the wider conservation movement over many years. He has left a great legacy for the future.

We also thank our member organisations, supporters and volunteers without whom our achievements this year would not have been possible. We are particularly grateful to our Trustees, Executive Committee, Amicus donors and Secretariat team.

Thanks to you we ended the year stronger than ever and confident about our future. Here’s to many more!

Collaborate ...

We held our biennial conference, the International Conference of National Trusts (ICNT) in Cambridge from 7-11 September 2015, kindly co-hosted by the National Trust of England, Wales and Northern Ireland (NTEWNI).

With the theme, Common threads; Different patterns, the 16th ICNT set out to explore the question ‘what is the role and purpose of the National Trust movement in the 21st Century?’

“One-Hundred and twenty years after the establishment of the National Trust, the movement returns to the UK to draw on experience and lessons not only from our work here, but from across the world, and to develop new strategies and tools to combat the forces of globalisation, economic volatility and development that we face in the 21st Century.” Ben Cowell, Director of the East of England, National Trust

This was the first time the Trusts of the world had met in England since 1986 and things have changed a lot over the past 30 years, including the establishment of INTO.

INTO’s role is to make the National Trust movement greater than the sum of its parts by providing a global focal point through which the movement, from every corner of the earth, comes together and works together. The ICNT provides the space for this to happen in real time and it was wonderful to see so many of INTO’s 65 member organisations and other delegates from across the world in Cambridge.

Participation at ICNT offers vital access to information, experience and resources enabling delegates to bring back new learning, which can be transformational for their organisation and country.

Feedback has shown that the ICNT helps Trusts (particularly the far flung and burgeoning ones) to feel part of an international movement and provides the opportunity to build partnerships with other Trusts.

Thanks are due to our sponsors, especially those who enabled attendance from such a wide range of countries, including American Express, the Helen Hamlyn Trust and the Headley Trust.

The ICNT has been bringing together the National Trusts of the world since the 1970s and is very much at the heart of our movement but it is not the only way for our members to collaborate.
As the year of two coastal celebrations: the golden jubilee of the NTEWNI’s Neptune Coastline Campaign and forty years of the Conservatoire du Littoral (CdL), the coast featured highly in 2015 and was the subject of our first networking event of the year. (Other popular webinars included the use of drones in conservation and beginners’ social media.)

At the end of September Oliver Maurice spent 2 days at the Meeting of European and Mediterranean Coastal Agencies and the Coast Day Celebration at the invitation of the CdL. It was an excellent opportunity to network, and to spread the word about INTO. Dame Helen Ghosh was also there and signed an MOU between the NTEWNI and CdL. Continuing the coast theme, we also joined a coalition of NGOs (including RSPB, Birdlife International, IUCN and Greenpeace) calling, successfully, for the designation of large-scale marine reserves in three British Overseas Territories.

2015 also marked the fiftieth anniversary of Din L’Art Helwa and the seventy-fifth of the Gelderland Trust. We were thrilled that Simon Molesworth was able to spend some time in Malta marking the occasion with Din L’Art Helwa and contributing to numerous discussions about environmental, planning and heritage issues with politicians, officials and Trust members.

“The ICNT gave much impetus to us here in Slovenia to go ahead and push for the eventual establishing of a National Trust for Slovenial. INTO’s inspiration, input and experience will be very beneficial in convincing our potential members and the local policy makers that such a Trust could be instrumental in managing our heritage.”

Jaro Ješe, Kultura-Natura Slovenija
Catherine Leonard attended similar celebrations in Gelderland. It was a wonderful opportunity to visit some of the Trust’s properties and meet supporters and stakeholders. The seminar was well attended and included speeches by Dame Helen Ghosh as well as the President of the German NRW-Foundation – another group that has been inspired by the National Trust model and also celebrating their 30th anniversary in 2015!

Under Julie Thompson’s leadership, the INTO Working Holidays programme celebrated its fifth year with a five-fold increase in the number of holidays since its inception. This programme brings volunteering opportunities to a much larger audience and increases the international profile of INTO members. Most holidays are a sell-out as a result.

We brought together all the documents and resources referenced during the Cambridge Conference into our ICNT Toolkit or Knowledge Base that allows INTO members to seek information and answers about best practices. The Toolkit will grow over time and become a valuable resource to members everywhere, but especially emerging Trusts. The ICNT was also an opportunity to strengthen collaboration across the INTO regional groupings.
At the beginning of February INTO delegates joined a workshop hosted by the Union of Concerned Scientists and the National Trust for Historic Preservation in Pocantico, New York. The objective was to develop recommendations and priorities for policies and actions to respond to the impacts of rapid climate change on the United States’ cultural heritage resources.

Catherine Leonard attended the European Heritage Alliance 3.3 meeting convened by Europa Nostra in Brussels in February and took the opportunity to connect with other cultural networks, as well as with staff from the European Commission. As a result, Catherine was invited to contribute to a EU-funded ‘Brainstorming Session’ on Participatory Governance in Cultural Heritage later in the year.

In March, we released a statement on behalf of the global National Trust movement about the destruction of irreplaceable and universally significant cultural heritage in Iraq: We condemned the actions of ISIS in the strongest possible terms and called upon the civilised world to join us in speaking out against the destruction of our global... cultural heritage, which is a clear crime against all humanity: generations past, present and future.

In Cambridge, building on information collected by the National Trust for Scotland on how the global heritage landscape has changed since the 2003 Edinburgh ICNT, we involved our membership in a debate over the threats to global heritage, which we will develop over the coming months.

Our members’ experience of a variety of issues from heritage-led urban revitalisation to the impacts of climate change on cultural and natural heritage can make a positive contribution and can highlight what is unique and special about the National Trust approach in order to influence decision makers in all aspects of policy making.

We were able to build on the Pocantico workshop and discussions in Cambridge by sending a small team to COP 21 in Paris. Our presence and contribution showed INTO as an influential and valuable partner, providing added value to our member organisations with an interest in the COP negotiations and allowing our members to be represented at the event.

“At a conference with around 50,000 delegates and nearly 100,000 public attendees, one wonders whether an individual’s voice will be heard above the chorus. However, there is no doubt that the voice of INTO was heard – loud and clear.

Attendance at COP21 was immensely beneficial for INTO and INTO Farms and will have great benefit for the organisation and member Trusts over the coming years.
The signing of the Paris Agreement marked a moment in history where the world came together with a sense of shared purpose and responsibility for tackling climate change. And although now is a time to celebrate and feel proud of our achievements, the work doesn’t stop here. It is up to INTO and member organisations to do what we do best – Innovate, share our stories, and work together to enhance the tangible and intangible assets of this world.”

Anika Molesworth, INTO Farms

Our thanks to Anika who contributed so well to the delegation during the two weeks; Andrew Potts of US/ICOMOS for organising the excellent Side Event and follow up with UNESCO; and to Keith Jones for his invaluable contribution as a practitioner and advocate for renewable energy.

Our Membership Director visited Stockholm from 25 - 28 March as the guest of the Swedish Society for Public Parks and Gardens (SSPPG). Oliver gave several talks about the work of the National Trust and INTO, promoting the idea of a National Trust for Sweden.

During his visit he saw three magnificent gardens all belonging to members of SSPPG who subsequently applied to join INTO as a Candidate member with a plan to form a National Trust for Sweden within 3 years.

INTO supported the Lake District National Park Authority with their nomination for World Heritage Site status by providing a summary of the history of the NT movement, its birth in the Lake District and how it has gone on to germinate National Trusts all around the world that now come together through INTO.

We continue to collaborate with international heritage organisations and colleagues from Europa Nostra, IIC – International Institute for Conservation of Artistic and Historic Works, International Land Conservation Network, UK Overseas Territories Conservation Forum, Bat Conservation International and Birdlife International, all of whom attended the Cambridge ICNT.

Catherine participated in the first Congress of the new International Land Conservation Network in Berlin alongside a large group of professionals working in the field (literally!). It was a great two days with a real buzz of positivity and creativity in the room. There was also much for INTO to learn from this new network, as well as a number of potential new members.

We have been backing the National Trust of South Australia’s campaign to save Martindale Hall for the nation. We sent a letter of support from the INTO Chairman and also shared this with HRH The Prince of Wales prior to his visit to Australia.
Communicate ...

We all know how important it is for us to communicate effectively with our members (hub and spoke model) and provide effective communications between our members (internet model).

Our goals in 2015, on which we made steady progress, were to:

Research: Develop an evidence base demonstrating where and how NTs have made a difference

Articulate: Create inspirational resources to share our expertise & experience using 21st century communications techniques

Partner: Collaborate with organisations that share a common cause to achieve agreed goals

Influence: Lead targeted campaigns focussed on addressing issues critical to the NT movement

Resource: Increase capacity for INTO communications

As mentioned previously, we have been using multiple tools and media to communicate with our members and supporters. We have also used traditional methods such as publications, talks and press releases.

Oliver Maurice wrote a preface for a booklet produced by our members the Taiwan Environmental Information Association (TEIA) on the establishment of an Environmental Trust. Since his visit in 2010 when he was invited to speak at a meeting of government officials to advocate for the establishment of such a trust, TEIA has been working towards this goal and has now acquired its first property. The booklet (below right) features a number of case studies including one about INTO itself and some from our members. It was funded by an INTO Small Grant.

Secretariat volunteer John Martin has begun a series of case studies showing how INTO has made a difference to Trusts including the Czech Republic, Fiji, Jersey, Spain and Taiwan. These have been shared with our members and supporters in the Knowledge Base.

The INTO IT team has created a new website for the National Trust of Zimbabwe, which was turned over to the NTZ volunteer team in the first week of March. The NTZ is now responsible for their own content with INTO volunteers remaining involved for training and system support. We also built the basic framework for a new website for the Hout Bay Heritage Trust.

The Cambridge ICNT provided an excellent opportunity to position INTO at the centre of the global National Trust movement.

Catherine spent time with the National Trust of Guernsey team during a lecture tour around the UK and then returned to address their AGM in the autumn, which was featured in the local press.
Organisational Strength ...

The first of our two more internally-focussed strategies is all about resilience and improving our business processes.

We have made progress on reviewing INTO governance arrangements which we will be enacting in 2016.

We prepared a new member growth strategy which takes a much more proactive approach to attracting Trusts not yet part of our network. One of our newest INTO members is the Yangon Heritage Trust (YHT), with whom we have been collaborating in the ASEF Heritage Cities project, amongst other things. INTO adviser Peter Mitchell visited them on a private visit to Burma in January.

Building capacity of the Secretariat is a constant driver and we welcomed several new volunteers in 2015.

Dora Hsu from the TEIA volunteered in the INTO office whilst on a study visit to the UK prior to the Conference. Her focus was the Conference Toolkit, as well as building capacity for the Asia-Pacific Regional Group and even visiting INTO members the Conservatoire du Littoral in France!

Putri Sasongko, BPPI Member, also volunteered with us after the Conference and spent three months developing our social media presence, managing the design, production and distribution of a series of promotional postcards and helping to organise our Winter Drinks.

Alice Macaire is leading our work building a network of advisers through the UK Foreign Office’s Diplomatic Service Families Association (DSFA). The idea is that spouses of British diplomats help us identify ‘national trust’ like organisations, introduce us and act as continuing contact points. By the end of 2015, we were connected with people in places as diverse as Sierra Leone, South Africa, Bahrain, China, Tanzania and Quebec who have offered to act as ‘ambassadors’ for INTO.
Reinforcing the previous strategy, our activity under this strand aims to improve budgetary oversight and increase financial sustainability.

Membership fees remain our most consistent source of income. Jackie Hunt manages our membership renewals and has developed a system to keep this timely and efficient.

We are deeply grateful to all our Amicus who make regular personal donations towards INTO’s work, particularly as this is often a gift made with little expectation of return benefit.

We invited our INTO Amicus to a ‘thank you’ event in London on 14 December. There was a distinctly Indonesian feel to the evening as we also sought to spread the word about ICNT 2017, taking place in Bali, 11-15 September. The evening was full of the sights, sounds and tastes of Bali thanks to Putri, whose friends provided Indonesian artwork and music to accompany the wonderful Asian food.

Our fundraising effort in 2015 was particularly focussed on the Cambridge ICNT and we were pleased to have raised £31,000 in grants towards the conference, added to the generous commitment of £40,000 from the NTEWNI for travel bursaries.

One new area of potential revenue is a pilot project offering ‘beyond the velvet rope’ holidays, hosted by INTO member organisations: An exclusive trip which raises awareness, revenue and potentially volunteering for the host Trust (the pilot being with the Barbados National Trust) and local economies; some income for INTO; potential engagement of new supporters through the positive buzz of supporting an overseas National Trust while on vacation abroad.

Structure, governance and management

INTO is registered and regulated under UK law as a company limited by guarantee (No 06718966) and as a charity (No 1128224). It is governed by its Memorandum and Articles of Association, registered on 7 October 2008, and referenced by the INTO Charter, endorsed in Delhi on 3 December 2007. These documents are available on the INTO website. The members of the company are the Directors as detailed on page 2 of the Memorandum of Association. In the event of the charity being wound up, the liability in respect of the guarantee is limited to £1 per member of the company.

The INTO member organisations are part of the wider advisory body known as the INTO Charter Organisation, which meets every two years in person, appoints the INTO Executive Committee members and is governed by the INTO Charter.

For the year ended 2015 the company was entitled to exemption under section 477 of the Companies Act 2006 relating to small companies. No members have required that the company to obtain an audit of its accounts for the year in question in accordance with section 476 of the Companies Act 2006. The Directors acknowledge their responsibility for complying with the requirements of the Act with respect to accounting records and for the preparation of accounts. These accounts have been prepared in accordance with the provisions applicable to companies subject to the small companies regime.
Organisation

The INTO Directors meet annually. They are supported and advised by the INTO Charter Executive Committee, representing the INTO Congress. The Executive Committee and Secretariat meet regularly by teleconference (and once a year in person), thus making optimal use of virtual technologies and enabling our worldwide interests and membership to participate in a regular and cost-effective manner. These meetings are chaired by Simon Molesworth, and since September 2015 by Fiona Reynolds.

The National Trust of England, Wales and Northern Ireland was appointed host of the Secretariat and employs a Head of the INTO Secretariat who manages the day-to-day operations of the charity. To facilitate effective operations, the Head of the INTO Secretariat delegates activity to a team of volunteer directors for operational matters.

INTO Charter Executive Committee members in 2015 (in addition to the Directors):

- Terry Levinthal (National Trust for Scotland)
- Luciano Mule'Stagno (Din L’Art Helwa, National Trust of Malta)
- Catrini Pratihari Kubontubuh (Indonesian Heritage Trust)
- Bishnu Tulsie (Saint Lucia National Trust)

Appointment of Directors

As set out in its Articles, the INTO Charity seeks and considers, but is not bound to follow, advice and recommendations that might be received from the INTO Charter Executive Committee regarding persons considered to be desirable candidates to be appointed a Director.

Risk Management

The Directors confirm that the major risks to which INTO is exposed have been reviewed and systems established to manage these.

Objectives and Activities

The object of the Charity is to promote the conservation and enhancement of the natural and cultural heritage of all nations for the benefit of the people of the world.

In shaping our objectives and planning our activities for the year, the Directors have considered the Charity Commission’s guidance on public benefit. The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with IAS/IFRS; the special provisions relating to companies subject to the small companies regime within Part 15 of the Companies Act 2006; the Charities Act 1993; the revised statement of Recommended Practice (SORP 2005), ‘Accounting and Reporting by Charities’, published in March 2005; and in accordance with the Financial Reporting Standard for Smaller Entities (effective April 2008). The principal accounting policies of the charity are set out in the Notes to the Financial Statements below.

The financial statements that follow were approved by the Directors on 16 September 2016 and signed on their behalf by Dame Fiona Reynolds DBE, Chairman of INTO.

Dame Fiona Reynolds DBE, Chairman of INTO
Every day we hear of work our member organisations wish to undertake but which they are having to embark upon with only the barest of resources and an abundance of optimism. Often we find that a small injection of funds at the beginning of a project – or advice from another Trust or the INTO Expert Network – can make all the difference.

You can help by joining your local National Trust organisation, by becoming an INTO Amicus or with a gift to the INTO Small Grants Programme. If you would like to get involved in any of our programmes either as a supporter, volunteer or member, please contact us at the address below.
